- Imelda Tanoto

We form future leaders who are agile and dynamic, because our environment is changing very rapidly. The most successful leaders are not those who gain when the environment is comfortable, but those who are able to lead in times of crisis.

- Anderson Tanoto

While remains a challenge, the pandemic has taught us to be more creative and find new ways of working with our program partners and deliver impact targets, with the spirit of partnership, data driven and focus on impact.
